CHAMPION DESIGNER

I think that everybody knows that Armani Evans from Year 6 won the design competition for the new James Bateman Junior High School badge. Her design has made us decide to adopt a new uniform too. It has also decided that the school colours will change from blues and gold to red, black and gold.

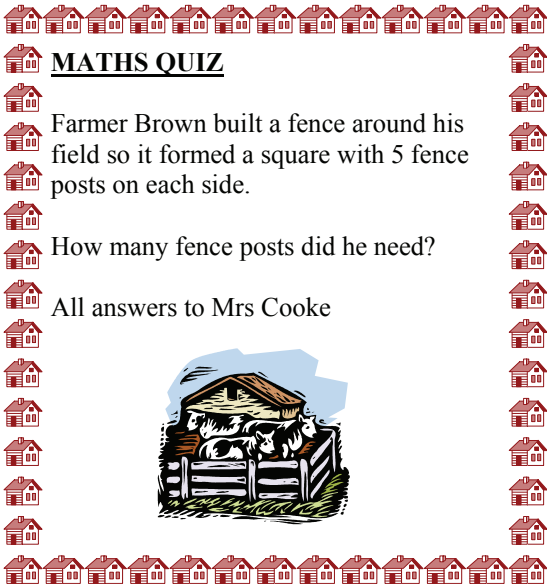

When Mr Hart told Armani that she had won she was really surprised. There were so many other great designs that she thought that she did not stand a chance. She is really proud now that her ideas are going to have such a big impact on the school.

Our reporter asked her where the design had come from.

“I thought of the idea of a dragon and I wanted it to look like my dad’s tattoo (the dragon is Oriental). I did the dragon in black and white so that there was a choice of colours. The dragon represents strength and courage. The block sections signify all of the different forms.”

Armani has not spent the £100 prize yet and she is still undecided about what she wants. We are all absolutely delighted that James Bateman Junior High School is to be launched with such an outstanding badge.
